"ALL-HIGHEST" RESPONSIBLE FOR AIR RAIDS.

KAISER ORDERS PARIS RAID.

Death-Roll Increased to 45:
207 Injured.

cowardice of foreigners in London.

The Paris "Matin" states that the Kaiser ordered the raid on Paris as a part of a deliberate "moral offensive."

The death-roll in the French capital has been increased to 45, while the injured number 297.

In a London inquest on bodies of victims of a panic at a raid shelter, it was stated by the police that the stampede was caused by cowardly young foreigners of military age.

PARIS RAID.

DEATH ROLL NOW 45.

It is officially announced that according to the latest information the total casualties in the air raid on Paris were 45 killed, of whom 31 were in Paris and 14 in the suburbs, and over 130 injured in Paris and 76 in the suburbs. The dead include 11 women and 5 children.

RHONDDA'S NEW RATIONING PLANS.

MEAT TO INCLUDE HORSEFLESH, RABBITS, POULTRY AND BACON.

Further official details of the rationing scheme for London and Home Counties, to come into force on Feb. 25, are announced.

The meat ration will include poultry, rabbits, bacon, horseflesh, and tinned meats. Children under 10 will receive half a ration.

The quantity of margarine or butter to be allowed will probably be 4 oz. a week for all, including children.

FOOD AND MEAT CARDS.

Important Points for House-holders.

The new details of the rationing scheme for London and the Home Counties were contained in a memorandum issued by the Food Ministry, which applies to margarine, butter, and meat, and is to be adopted in the following counties:—

London.
Middlesex.
Herts.
Surrey.
Kent.
Essex.
Sussex.

Will include butcher's meat and pork, bones, offal, suet, and sausages, bacon and ham, cooked, tinned, preserved, and prepared meats, venison and hare meat, and poultry, hares, rabbits, and game.

AMOUNT OF RATION.
The ration may be varied from time to time. At first the butter and margarine ration will probably be 4 oz. per head per week, including bacon. The amount of the meat ration, which will be the same for all adults, will be announced before the scheme comes into force, and notices indicating the amount will be displayed in butchers' shops.

FOOD CARDS AND MEAT CARDS.
Two distinct cards will be issued:—A meat card, with detachable coupons, for the purchase of meat or meat meals. Children under 10, who will be entitled to a ration, will have special cards. A food card, with large coupons, but with spaces to be marked by the retailer when purchases are made. This card will be used for butter and margarine and any other foods which may be rationed later. A distinctive card will be issued for children under 10.

APPLICATION FORMS.
Any householder who has not received an application form by Feb. 4 should apply at once to the local food office. Separate applications may be made by local traders, provided that they also provide that their names are not included in another form. All applications must reach the local food office by Feb. 9. Persons residing permanently in hotels should apply for cards.

OUTSIDE SUPPLIES.
Persons who propose to obtain butter or margarine outside the area of the scheme, or from any source other than a registered retailer in the area, should boldly cross on the front of the application form, and at the foot of Page 3 the name and address of the person from whom supplies will be obtained. In such cases the butter and margarine section of the food card will be cancelled before issue. The fact that persons obtain supplies in this way will not relieve them from the necessity of observing the ration.

USE OF CARDS.
Before Feb. 18 the customer must register his card with his shopkeeper by filing up the counterfoil at the foot of the card and lodging it with the retailer. If the customer's name has not been entered on the card by the food office, this must be done when it is received. It is necessary the cards of a household may be divided among different retailers. Rations may not be bought after the end of the month in which they are distributed with the shopkeeper, if willing, to keep his card for him. The customer must register his meat card with the butcher, who will provide him with meat, including pork, by detaching and lodging with him the card.

WHOLESALE FIRM.
At Huddersfield Jos. Christopher Wood, trading as J. H. Wood and Sons, fish and game merchants, was fined £20 for selling in a wholesale application for him that he required a sack of Irish butter for his customers when he had no retail orders lodged with him.

A FATHER OF HEROES.

SOMETHING THAT EVERY SLACKER SHOULD READ.

An old and esteemed contributor to "The People" writes us on a matter of business, but his letter opens with a passage so charged with pathos and pure patriotism that we cannot resist quoting it. The spirit of W. E. Henley is here: "I have done for thee, England, my England?"

What have I done for thee, England, my own?

breathes in every word of it, and we quote it for the confusion of those who are inclined to say that they do sufficient for their country by earning a fat salary in security at home, while better men are dying in the trenches.

I have been wondering if the war has taken away so many of your capable contributors that this infinite carelessness has seized me. My three children are broken in my heart, and left me a lonely old man, just wearing out, as best I can, the few days of my life. I have two daughters, whose husbands are both serving, and their suggestion I have broken up my home and live with them alternately.

I don't regret even now I am saying this. I am a widow, and I have nothing to do, for in the other so-called treatments the same thing is supplied to everyone alike, and there it ends.

A large illustrated book, giving full particulars of the powerful remedy, is sent free of all charge, and a legal guarantee to cure is sent with each book. This publication teams with good advice, and if you are a sufferer it is sure to be the means of bringing about your speedy and permanent recovery, even if doctors, hospitals, and specialists have failed to help you. Early application for the book is necessary, as only a limited number of free copies is to be distributed.

Thousands praise the day they read the book.

Don't Forget This.

You can cure yourself in your own home WITHOUT REST, PAIN, OPERATION, RELAPSE, OR FAILURE.

HORSEFLESH ON SALE.

Horseflesh is being placed on the market under an arrangement between the Army Veterinary Department of the War Office and Messrs. Lidstone (Ltd.), a multiple shop firm of butchers. Seventeen Army horses certified fit for human food reached London this week. "I am arranging for the use of the horses in the same way as cattle," said Mr. Wm. Coggan, chairman and managing director of Messrs. Lidstone (Ltd.).

"We shall begin slaughtering at once. The fixed wholesale price is 6d. a lb.; the average retail price will be about 9d. a lb. for a good cut. I have had letters from all parts of the country—from places as far as Ceylon and Australia, asking for a full description of your complaint and the treatment you have had."

GARDENER'S CLAIM TO A PEERAGE.

WORKING MAN WHO SAYS HE IS THE REAL MARQUIS OF WATERFORD.

A strange and romantic story is being unfolded in the Probate Court this week, before Justice Coleridge, in connection with a claim by a working gardener, Mr. George Beresford, or Tooth, to be the Marquis of Waterford. Mr. Beresford, who lives at Sydenham, asks for a declaration that he is the only legitimate heir of the fifth Marquis. Respondents are the Attorney-General, the present Marquis of Waterford (appearing by his mother and guardian), and the Hon. Claude Anson, Lord Donoughmore, and Lord Decies, trustees of the Waterford Estate.—Claimant says he was born in 1873 of the marquis's twin house in Chesham-place, and was brought up by a Mrs. Duncan, of Seymour-place, Fulham. Respondents say the period when he was not of the marquis was not of a Georgia Tooth, sister of a servant in Beresford house, who died early in 1872 in the workhouse.

Petitioner's Evidence.

Petitioner, in evidence, told the court that he did not know his age, as he had never celebrated it. But for the past seven or eight years he had celebrated March 29 as his birthday.—Mr. Gill: Did the coffin go away in the brougham? In his lordship's brougham, with the undertaker.—Witness attended the funeral of the fifth Marquis, who had died in South Audley-st., once a month to get the money for his maintenance. He had to be "produced" in the flesh, on each occasion, on March 29, when he attended a Board school in Park-walk, Chelsea. One day Mrs. Godfrey arrived with a telegram and got him away from the fifth marquis, who had met with an accident while hunting, and thought he was dying. Dressed in his "best" clothes, he went to 30, Charles-st., and saw the marquis. The latter told him he was up to him as a "father." Both before and after that the marquis helped him with money. In 1894 his allowance was stopped. On the death of the fifth marquis he wrote to various members of the Waterford family, including Lord Beresford. Petitioner told Mr. Gill that he could produce no official document as to the date of his adoption birth in 1873. There were records of the birth of Geo. Tooth in 1872. It was evidence of a stillborn baby being buried in Ireland with a doctor's certificate and other things, it was all a conspiracy and a sham, said witness. He suggested that the body of another baby was secretly smuggled into the house of the marquis and buried. There were two Geo. Tooths, No. 1 and No. 2. He was Geo. Tooth, No. 1, and was smuggled away to Mrs. Duncan's in the dusk one evening in Lord Waterford's carriage.

George Tooth, F.M.

It was true, said witness, that he was answerable for the maintenance of his stepson, but he had not been asked to do so. Mr. Gill referred to a letter which he suggested, to him of the absurdity of his claim. The letter was written to Mrs. Duncan by Lord Wm. Beresford on April 8, 1873, and ran:—

Case for the Marquis.

Opening respondent's case, Mr. Gill described petitioner as a person of some note, and one of appealing ingenuity. Mrs. Vivyan's pity was excited when she heard that Georgina George Beresford, or Tooth, who claims to be the Marquis of Waterford.

THE ADMIRAL'S LARDER.

Sir R. Poore Fined £30 for Food Hoarding.

The local magistrate heard a series of charges of food hoarding against Admiral Sir R. Poore, Bart., of Winsley Corner, Bradford-on-Avon. It was alleged that he had acquired, or had in his possession:—

50lb. of tea. 35lb. of cheese.

40lb. of macaroni. 24lb. of coffee-bean.

40lb. of tapioca. 14lb.

40lb. of rice.

It was stated that the admiral's house was searched, and the articles enumerated were found together with 1lb. of coco and 26lb. of flour.

The Defence.

—For the defence it was urged that Lady Poore had been ill for a long time and in a nursing home, and Sir Richardson had not been of the opinion that he had the goods.—

The magistrates said they regretted that the Home Office should have asked that Bench to sit in judgment on a fellow-magistrate in a case of this kind. The summonses should have been heard at another tribunal.—Sir Richard mentioned that he had been a vegetarian for practical reasons, and the amount of his wife's bill had been greatly reduced. Six summonses were fixed £30 on each of six days, and some of the food was ordered to be confiscated.

PARIS MYSTERY.

WOMAN FOUND STRANGLED.

A mysterious crime recently received recent on in Paris, which has just been visiting terms. Miss Norman, of living in one of the most fashionable neighbourhoods in Paris. A rascapist found a large bag on the pavement in the streets near the Parc Monceau, and began opening it hoping for a valuable find. When the bag was opened a foot protruded. The police were thereupon called in, and found that the bag contained the body of a man tied to a chair. The body had not yet been identified, but considerable evidence had already been obtained. This points undoubtedly to murder, although there is no clue yet to the murderer. The woman, according to the medical evidence, was certainly strangled. The body was wrapped up in an artillerist's overalls, which had been camouflaged, as was seen by the colours of the uniform. The woman wore fashionable overgarments and boots, but coarse under clothing. The police suppose from this and other evidence that the woman was a domestic servant who was wearing some of her mistress's clothes. There is no evidence of identity, as there were no papers of any kind on the body. The address of a man found in the bag is the only clue to the murderer in this mysterious case.

A FATHER'S WISH.

68 AND WANTS TO BE PUT IN THE LINE OF INHERITANCE.

A fine example of patriotism is set by an Oldham veteran, Sergt.-maj.

Bailey, who has lost three sons in the war, and now, at the age of 58 years, is himself endeavouring to obtain permission to take his place in the ranks at the front. Since the outbreak of war Sergt.-maj. Bailey has been engaged at the Oldham Recruiting

Depot, and in the days of gloom

the old man did much to swell the numbers of the recruits to the forces.

His duties at the recruiting office are now approaching an end, and he has applied to be attached to the expedi-tory force in such a capacity that he might be sent for service at the front. In his letter of request, he says that although 58 years of age, he is still in splendid health, and his physical and eyesight are good.

"All through my 23 years' service," he continues, "I have always been a good account of myself. I have served through two campaigns, namely,

South Africa 1899 and 1900.

I have also lost my only son in the present campaign, and it is then, if I could, I will avenge. I should have applied to you sooner if I had known my services were required here.

FATHER'S FATAL FALL.

At a West Ham inquest on Thos.

How, 62, a customs watcher, of Gorleston, Yarmouth, whose son, Charles, under remand, charged with manslaughter, the evidence showed that owing to deceased's habits his wife had left him. On Friday night deceased went to his son's house to find her. He tried to force his way in, and in a scuffle which ensued he fell down some steps and fractured his skull and died from the injury. The jury returned a verdict of death by misadventure, and said that the son was not criminally responsible for his father's fall.

HELD BY TWO MASKED MEN.

A dramatic story is told of the attack reported in yesterday's newspaper, when two masked men robbed a jeweller of £1,000.

They were described as two men in dark clothes.

THE DUTY OF PARENTS.

Another dramatic story is told of the advice of Mr. Chester Jones, at London, to a woman who had told the magistrate a long story of the miseries of her son, a boy just turned 14.

Mr. Chester Jones, if you have children you have got to manage them.

If you can't manage them, then you can't be a parent.

DEATH SENTENCE ON EX-SOLDIER.

MURDERED HIS SWEETHEART AND THEN CUT HIS OWN THROAT.

A terrible tragedy in a remote Cornish village had its sequel at Bodmin Assizes. The accused, Edward Thomas, John McCartney, 22, rope spinner, pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering Linda Jane Vine, with whom he had been keeping company, at Penryn, on Jan. 14. Accused appeared in the dock with his throat still bandaged and looking very ill. Mr. Dunnnett, prosecuting, said that the accused had been in France for about a year, and received his discharge after having been gassed. For 15 or 16 months he had been living with his parents at College, Bude, and working as a labourer. He had been keeping company with Linda Vine, who for four months had been living at St. Ives, and it appeared had assisted in the housework, not as a domestic, and prisoner had for some time contributed 8s. per week towards the girl's board and lodgings. Prisoner and Vine were on the closest intimacy, and both were suffering from a venereal disease at the time of the tragedy, and it was conjectured that the girl had been caused that he was convinced that he contracted it from Vine. About 6 p.m. on Jan. 14 accused called at the girl's lodgings for her. They went away together, and proceeded to the Beacon. At 8 o'clock accused returned home with his throat cut and bleeding. His hands were covered with blood, he had no cap on, and later he said:

I have done in the girl at the Beacon with a razor, and tried to do myself in but I lost the razor. The police went to the Beacon, where the girl's body was found. It was a most hideous sight. Mrs. McCartney was grieved as that which her son was wearing when he left home. Since his arrest accused had made statements to the effect that he killed the girl because she gave him the disease. Accused's Mother's Evidence.—Mrs. Ada McCartney gave evidence of accused's return on the fatal night covered with blood, and his confession respecting the girl. A letter from the girl's mother said it was found in the house as follows:—

Dear Mother—I am going to do away with myself because I have disgraced myself, and the girl gave it to me. Don't worry about me as I have fettled it on myself. I promise you.

Cross-examined. Mrs. McCartney said accused joined the Army before the war at the age of 18, and stayed in the Army about three years. He was discharged from the Army on account of his hearing. After having been gassed, at a time he complained that his head was very bad. His ex-band had been in a lunatic asylum twice. His Lordship: Prisoner's father? Yes. Her husband had been in the Union hospital twice. The first time he was removed to the asylum was 20 years ago, and the last six times ago. P.S. Johns, Penzance, described the girl as the boy's body and accused's confession of the deed. P.G. Hugo stated that accused remarked to him: "You are lucky to have got me here. You would not have got me if I had not lost the razor." Accused also said to P.C. Ernest Doney, Falmouth, on the way to Talmouth: "The doctor says she has got it, and she is now, and going to be right again."

The Hidden Plague.—P.C. Hugo was recalled by his lordship, and said there was a time, previous to the four or five months during which she had been keeping company with the accused at Bodmin, when he thought she was leading an immoral life, but he had never seen her with another man during the time she was keeping company with accused. Cross-examined by Mr. Wiltshire, witness said he had not seen accused with a soldier since she kept company with accused. Dr. L.B. Horner gave evidence of the accused's health, and also evidence of his disease; and also evidence of the wounds from which the girl died. He said she was suffering from a disease of more than two months' standing. Mr. Wiltshire cross-examined witness as to whether the disease might have been a psychopathic condition. He replied that it would not. He did not think the inhalation of chlorine gas would have any effect on the brain. In reply to his lordship, witness said if a blood vessel broke through the effect of the gas on the bronchial tubes there would be objective symptoms, probably paralysis, but he saw nothing to suggest that, and that accused was of unsound mind.

A Plea of Insanity.—Mr. Wiltshire, for the defence, contended that prisoner killed deceased during a fit of temporary insanity, and submitted there was evidence that he was not responsible for his acts on that occasion. The court found him not guilty of the charge of temporary insanity, having regard to the history of his father. He also submitted that the effect of having been gassed, of having gone through all the horrors of the battlefield, and of his suffering from a certain disease, induced latent lunacy. He also submitted, and that there was no malice against the deceased, and that the evidence by the fact that the note he left at home indicated no revenge upon her. It simply indicated that he was going to do away with himself, and, "advised counsel, "any man who would attempt to commit suicide is not guilty of an offence with respect to a girl named Wright, and was acquitted. Prisoner was tried at the last sessions before Justice Avery, and, being found guilty, was sentenced to three years' penal servitude. Then it was discovered that a journeyman had impersonated another man. The judge, after imposing a substantial fine on the absent juryman, ordered the Director of Public Prosecutions to be communicated with. The Court of Criminal Appeal later quashed the conviction because of the impersonation.

3 YEARS' SENTENCE QUASHED.—At the Old Bailey Thos. Edwd. Wakefield, 25, chaffeur, was found not guilty of an offence with respect to a girl named Wright, and was acquitted. Prisoner was tried at the last sessions before Justice Avery, and, being found guilty, was sentenced to three years' penal servitude. Then it was discovered that a journeyman had impersonated another man. The judge, after imposing a substantial fine on the absent juryman, ordered the Director of Public Prosecutions to be communicated with. The Court of Criminal Appeal later quashed the conviction because of the impersonation.

ARMY'S DIVE TO DEATH.—While flying over the Mersey on Sunday morning Second-lieut. John Daniel Gee, Brendel, 26, of the R.F.C., fell from a height of 6,000 ft. into the river. Several hours later, when the tide had receded, his body was found in the cockpit of the machine. Second-lieut. Brendel was a native of London. On Sunday evening he went up in a Sopwith single-seater scouting machine. About 10 minutes later his machine was seen making a spinning movement, and then suddenly make a straight dive for the river. The machine has been salvaged.

ARMY BOOTS.—Cpl. Noel Lawrence, R.N., D.S.O., who took the first British gun marine into the Baltic at the outbreak of the war, and later torpedoed the Moltke and two others German battleships, seriously damaging all three, was presented with the Honorary Freedom of Maidstone. He is a native of Kent.

JUDGMENT AND SENTENCE.—The jury returned a verdict of wilful murder. The Foreman asked if it was possible to recommend prisoner to mercy in any way. His Lordship: Yes, I accept that, and will forward it to the proper authority. Assuming the "black cap," his lordship passed sentence of death amid deadly silence. He added: "The jury have added to the verdict a recommendation of mercy, and I will take care of that in accordance with the law." The jury returned a verdict of wilful murder. The Foreman asked if it was possible to recommend prisoner to mercy in any way. ## PROMOTION IN THE ARMY.

An interesting light on promotion in the Army was shed by Lord Derby, Secretary for War, in a speech which he made in London this week. He said he wrote to Sir Douglas Haig on the question, and he wrote back as follows:—

Assure you it has been my unceasing effort to bring merit and brains to the front wherever they can be found. The search I have been assisted most conscientiously by the commanders of our divisions, brigades, and corps. I have long recognised that the Empire has come into this great Army some of the most highly educated and most intelligent men, and, consequently, there is a very great need of a sufficient number of them to recruit corps of officers.

The number of men of the Territorials and the New Armies who have either been specially commissioned for special posts or have been taken out of the ranks to fill these posts amount to 9,516. Sir Auckland Geddes was a major in one of the new batteries at the beginning of the war, and Sir Eric Chappell was specially commissioned to a very successful head of our railways in France.

Promotion of "Territorials."

The number of officers of all categories who have held appointments on the Adjutant-General's staff or the Quartermaster-General's Staff from the beginning of the war is 6,624. Of these, 4,631 were Regulars and ex-Regulars, while the remaining 1,993 belonged to the Territorials and the New Armies. For the first 18 months of the war there were not other men in the Army than Territorials who were capable or undertaking the work.

The figures for the last six months show that the proportion is gradually but surely coming the other way.

They are:—

Regulars ..... 1,944 New Armies ..... 540

Special Officers 210 Territorials ..... 452

Special R. S. Overseas ..... 142 Overseas ..... 30

Force ..... 30

THE TURF

BY LARRY STYX

"Larry Lynx" cannot correspond by post with his readers, but will answer through the columns of "The People" all reasonable questions concerning racing or general sport.

THE CATWICK CARD.

ONE OR TWO TO FOLLOW, WITH REASONS WHY.

IT'S rather a little singular that since we resumed racing not a single fixture has been arranged for the month of February, and the meetings at the various racecourses have been a complete failure. Real racing pace was out of the question.

From off the reel represents Aynsley's present record out of the sticks. He has come to the rescue of the winter weather and improves in his jumping with each appearance.

The Windsor executive was informed that the race course was not permitted to pose their meeting beyond Thursday, Friday and Saturday, racing is taboo. So apparently permission will no longer be given to postpone into the following week.

It is rather remarkable that since racing has been a complete failure not one single fixture has been carried out as originally arranged.

On what we saw in the Brooks Hurdles at Windsor Aynsley can be put down safe 2nd in front of the other meeting. Safe Cut.

It would be difficult to name a racecourse cursed with such bad luck in the shape of weather conditions as Windsor. The last one to be held there was flat racing has had to be abandoned. That was on the Saturday of a very black Ascot week some years ago, when the course was a quagmire.

That meeting of Cargin Park, who was receiving 30s., was, to my mind, a very convincing performance. On Thursday our first wager will be a little off the mark, as the meeting at the Hurdle. When beaten by Peterloo, he had Doctor Ryan behind him. He now meets Peterloo on sirs' better terms.

The second on the list of the meetables, STANTON was just behind Cuxy when both were beaten by Waterford. He meets the latter on 10s. better terms in the Welsh Bazaar. He is quite likely to win. ANTIPATER who was unexpectedly beaten by his stable companion Beresford, will be decided again at Manchester on Friday, instead of Saturday at Waterford.

in the Cordon system. He had practically won the Great Hall Hurdles when he fell, and earlier was second to the very useful Cordon.

CARHOLME HANDICAP.

A FEW LIKELY HORSES FOR LINCOLN HANDICAP SUBSTITUTE.

We had no Lincolnshire Handicap substitute last year, but the Wainwrights have the break for the month.

No one would say that the Lammes Lands form an ideal course for a "straight" mile race, and a very different substitute is required from the one who would be asked to run on them.

The last substitute Lincolnshire Hurdle, with a view to picking one by slight artillery activity in the region of Bury and Oldham, is a

MEN WHO LEAVE THE CABINET.

SPEECH BY SIR EDWARD CARSON.

Sir Edward Carson was the principal speaker at a private gathering of the British Empire Producers' Organisation at the Connaught Rooms, April 12. In his speech to the War Cabinet, he said: "I know some men, when they go out of a Government, seem to think that they ought immediately to take a personal attitude, and I have the gravest contempt for a man who has left the Government, and then proceeds to try and weaken everything that he has been instrumental in bringing about. I have been a contributor" (Applause).

Proceeding, he said he read the other day a speech by the President of the Textile Industries in Germany in which it was admitted that if the Allies were to take in hand the control of the raw cotton, their textile at Lincoln, when men were stationed at intervals down the course to announce the approach of the horses by whistle.

The two races that were decided at Windsor, the 1000s. and 2000s. were transferred to the other courses. Real racing pace was out of the question.

I understand that all the fences are in perfect order at Sandown Park, for the meeting arranged to take place there on April 20 and 21.

It is no means a new idea that at Windsor of adding a portion of one day's card to that of another. I remember similar instances at Warwick, Manchester and Liverpool, and no doubt there are others.

He meets the latter on 10s. better terms in the Welsh Bazaar. He is quite likely to win. ANTIPATER who was unexpectedly beaten by his stable companion Beresford, will be decided again at Manchester on Friday, instead of Saturday at Waterford.

It is suggested that as there is now no Cheltenham National Hunt meeting we are likely to see him go on to better things in the Cotland Chase.

That meeting of Cargin Park, who was receiving 30s., was, to my mind, a very convincing performance. On Thursday our first wager will be a little off the mark, as the meeting at the Hurdle. When beaten by Peterloo, he had Doctor Ryan behind him. He now meets Peterloo on sirs' better terms.

The second on the list of the meetables, STANTON was just behind Cuxy when both were beaten by Waterford.
